"They get their just dessert."

The Jackal Men was bees by a blinding vision from the sky.

"You will worship Me, Kaa-sha, Snake of the Sky, Mother of Us All. And women shall rule this land. You shall ride upon Zebras and Ostriches. The Mongoose is the sign of evil. Evil are people who dress in white robes."

Five Twin Jackal got off the ground, slapped the dust from his body and shrugged, "Maybe snorting bogus root is not such a good idea after all."

Niro Noga, Little Caesar of Madagascar

It's night time in Sakalava.

"Our poor Punda Punda has died. We honor him with this tomb."

"So I wonder what old Punda² would like on his tombstone?"

The torches were extinguished by a violent gust of wind. Amidst howling noises, a wraith vaguely in the figure of the late king intoned, "Honor me with Cheese and Sausages."

"Yes sir! Right away."

The African Football League was much more fun when the 'Noid was avoided. The Mahidian Corsairs of the Mediterranean remained the Great Victors of the Mighty Bowl.

King Gobbu went to Makurra and found a bribe for his son Umbawa. Umbawa was however too busy to have kids he took a cumbersome army of slow, heavy infantry to Danakil and to this day is still doing the dirty work of stuffing Coptism into the hearts of these dirty Muslims. Suki, a port city, was founded in Sennar along the Blue Nile. Then King Gobbu died. That is, King Gobbu passed on. King Gobbu is no more. Gobbu has ceased to be. He has demised. Old Gobbu has been deep sixed. The king has expired and has gone to meet his maker. Gobbu is a late king. He has assumed room temperature. Bereft of life, Gobbu rests in peace. He's pushing up daisies from within his underground bed. He's rung down the final curtain and has joined the choir invisible. This is an ex-king, who has cashed in his chips. He's doing the pine box lambada. He has croaked, kicked the bucket, cut his puppet strings. That Holy Chariot had swung down and has taken Old Gobbu to the pearl gates. The king has breathed his last gasp. He's flattened. He's D.O.A. Gobbu's a corpse, a cadaver, a stiff. He's in his final resting place. He took the cemetery plunge. King Gobbu's all dried up; he's outta there; left this mortal coil. You don't have to make Gobbu the Great cup holders anymore, that old king is now a spook. You could say Umbawa is deceased. He's made the obituaries. Gobbu has a space reserved at Boothill. Umbawa has declared that a 100 day wake be held to honor and contemplate the dead King Gobbu. We all mourn his expiration...

As it is written: The lip of truth shall be established forever; but a lying tongue is but for the moment (Prov. 12:19).

"Since thine attempted injury to the Church, sorrowfully I excommunicate thee, as thy Father. Oh Lord, when will the house of Baldwin learn to love thee and thy works? Will they have to be punished unto the seventh generation? Thy will is done. Let all the rulers of Europe look to Boleslav III, Margrave of Poland: for he has seen the light. Blessed are the peacemakers; they shall be called the children of God (Matt.5:9). Oh sure, the privy cabinet made it certain he didn't go anywhere but they didn't stop his son Heiker. Heiker and his small band of axemen took Halland and Skåne before Christine's child, Robbie crossed over on ferries with a howling battalion that is larger. Skåne was taken back as was Halland. Robert waited as long as he could for Lars Utnag to drag in the reinforcements. So slow they were (due to heavy infantry) they barely made it to Halland by the end of the turn. Because of this, Robert did not feel confident to attack Hans's sailors in their homeland. And if that wasn't enough to cause crow's feet on the Queen's face, strange aliens were sighted in the Viking Bank. They called themselves, "Sakalaviks".

THE PRATHARA EMPIRE OF KAUNAJ (14.0C/VG)

Pratihara Gupta Gupta, Emperor of Kaunaj

Trade Partners: Islam*, Ghur, Chalukya*, Tibet, Kambuja-

DIPLOMACY: none

Gopala of Pratihara could not tolerate the mutiny of Acheta. He will topple this would be king to total ruin. And he knew that it would be a heck of a struggle to do this. So everyone available including teenaged boys who could hold swords were mustered in the market square in Kotla. Gopala then took the army of new recruits to join his son Gupta Gupta's veterans and planned a rendezvous in Ajmere pending knowledge of the whereabouts of Acheta Chandragupta and his forces. The Sind were quick to reveal themselves for in September of 1181, they entered Multan, seeking control of the Muslims there. Gopala and Gupta Gupta with their army of 53,500 men encountered the 30,000 Achetans. After attempting an escape route, the Achetans beat Gopala, and the king with a bloody nose swore they'll won't be able to get away with this again. The find advanced to Jhelum in October of 1182 and Gopala showed to contest this move. Another foiled evasion led to another battle, a stalemate, the surviving Achetans escaped to Multan in the confusion of battle. Before Gopala was able to discern the new location of the Sind rebels, they had made a break into Ajmere. Gopala marched in haste to that wasteland region but the rebels have him the slip.

"If the yellow bellies won't stand up to me I'll take their homeland," Gopala remarked and he gained tribute from Multan and Sukkur. he arrived in Sind to find the crafty Achetan King had used a roundabout route to Sind and had just enough men to withstand Kotla's finest in the first brouhaha. The two war camps retired at the end of December of 1185, with the Achetans still holding the field. Word came to Gopala that a second Achetan army consisting of light cavalry had taken Chitor, Vatsa and neutralized Kamarupa and struck the colors of the Vanga garrison. He also found out that while Acheta Chandragupta while he was at large had taken Gujarat and Surastra and allowed Malwa to revolt. When Gopala died of lung cancer, Jhelum revolted too.

Trade Partners: (with 8c) Ethiopia*, Islam-; (with 2c) Pagan

DIPLOMACY: Vatsa(nt), Chitor(ea)

Chandragupta's great plan was spoiled when his Marshal Ziplatsu was seriously beaten up by four men with bludgeons. So he had two armies available. One army was given to his son, Chand, who 'tagged' Chitor then tried to do the same in Kuru, Jaunpur, Tirhut and Maghada but found the cities were too sturdily defended for Chand to take in any form of siege. In Kuru, Chand's troops were heavily decimated by the garrison of Nagavijaya. Chand secured Kamarupa through but they revolted when he left. He finished the turn in Vanga which he did take. The Great Master himself found himself paralyzing a twice larger Kottan force. He found he could tie the great army up by playing hide and seek. They wisecracked to him eventually and marched against his capital. In that time, Chandragupta rode in Gujarat and Surastra, subverting the garrisons of these former Parana lands. He finally had to respond when the Pratihars attacked Sind itself. Even though he incurred more losses against an army twice his size, Chandragupta still held the field, for the time being...

Glap Tui, Wang Dai Viet

Trade Partners: Kambuja, Java-, Chekiang, Zhong, Tumed*

DIPLOMACY: Lingnan(fa), Mison(a), Hmong(c), Taiwan(nt), Cochis(ea)

The major move that Viet Nam did was expand their capital city to 6 Gpv. The Imperial Heir found a wife in Lingnan which proved instrumental in improving their status to vassals.

THE HIDDEN DRAGON OF CHEKIANG (14.4C/B)

Quan Tsai, Celestial King of Chekiang

Trade Partners: Java, Vietnam, Zhong, Tumed

DIPLOMACY: Kedah(f), Kwangsi(f), Hengshan(fa), Kanchou(a)

The port that's gone out of control, Makao, has just been dedicated in the name of the Monkey God. It has just brought Tani into the economic sphere of China, because it faces the Gulf of Tonkin. A fleet was sent to the Funan Cambodians but it was turned away.

THE EMPIRE OF WONTONG (12.8C/VB)

Wu Yao, Emperor of the Middle Kingdom

Trade Partners: Vietnam, Chekiang, Tumed

DIPLOMACY: Pei Huang(f)

War was declared on the barbarous, unruly savages of Ordos. The Prince of Pei Huang led the battle against these hooligans and lost his entire army. Shamed by the defeat, the Pei Huang lord fell on his sword.

THE TURNED ZU (0.6C/N)Jai Fumon, King of the Turned Northlands

Trade Partners: Vietnam, Cheldang, Zhong

DIPLOMACY: Yun(f), Bao Ding(a), Chihhi(ea), Tsainan(a)

The Turned were kind enough to earmark a veritable fleet of sampans and dinghy to the Minomotos for their economic aggrandizement. However this fleet has to be delivered. Considering that they are auxiliaries, they are unsuited to cross the high seas at their present state. Jai Fumon has hired a new general staff to formulate a more civilized game plan.

THE EMPIRE OF NIHON (3.6C \ 2.0C \ 1.2C/N)Tanno Antoku, *75th Emperor of Nihon, Child of Amaterasu*Minomoto Tokusumi, Shogun of Japan

Trade Partners: none

DIPLOMACY: Kagoshima(t), Shikoku(c)

The Minomoto Shogun was quite unhappy about the prospect of dealing with a war. He figured that killing the rebel leader would do the trick, but it party failed because the ninja were not given a specific place to strike. The armies of the Tanka and Kuriso clans were gathered in Yamato and attacked Shimane. The home of Amago did not become a friendly region because it was subjected to a scorched earth. This took forever because the heavy infantry slowed everyone down. And so there was no time to liberate Yamaguchi. Fujimoto Akiyama brought the Chosan garrison home to defend Kagoshima as he preformed diplomacy there. It looks like the Amago were peaker than originally thought.

THE AMAGO DOMINION (2.0C \ 1.2C \ 1.2C/VG)Amago Tomoteru, Boss of Shimane

Trade Partners: none

DIPLOMACY: no effect

Tomoteru laughed off the pathetic assassination attempt and journeyed to Koguryo where he, after Fujimoto left, subverted the garrison there and turned the region into a feudal ally. This cut off the Vietnamese trade and made Chinese trade difficult. Tomoteru's son Gamodebu took new recruits by sea to Kwanto, pacified the region and gained the city (Edo) by passive siege. They had lots of time to burn so they goofed off in the city. Koguryo revolted and became neutral.
