THE AKA MURRID EMIRATE OF FULANI - 495

Sugou, Emir of the Fulani
Trade Value: 9 Partners: Man, Kongo, Ethiopia, Mahidia, Almoravid--
DIPLOMACY: Takrur(a)

The Garou raids did not settle well the lunch of Chief Sugou. He had personally promised the camel drivers of Segu that he would keep peace in their land. He lost face there when Ret Garo and his boys snuck in and stole huge piles of sea shells. So Sugou gathered 7000 knights, 7000 hoplitee and 16,500 spear chuckers plus as a bonus 4000 Segu goat herders armed with knives. As a group they attacked Garou and had Ret Garo's head served in hot gravy and biscuits. Sugou wanted the Fulani to do even more but they were slowed down by the heavy units.

GAROURAIDERS

Mossi prudently disavowed any connection with Garou and have condemned Ret Garo for being such an uncool dude.

DIPLOMACY: Adowa(a), Napata(a), Faras(a)

A brand new city Luxor (actually its an old, grungy town that suffered depopulation in the Dark Ages), was built up along the banks of the Nile in Napata. That bought an active alliance of the local ruling elite there. Other allies were found in Adowa and Faras.

A new city was built in the Platana district of Sicily, Marsala which has a port.

EUROPEWestern Europe

Merca: 10mhc, 10mc, 10mhi, 10mi, 5mg

THE NORMAN KINGDOM OF SAXONIA - 648

Neville the Marker, King of the Saxons and of the Normans

Trade Value: 16 Partners: Andalus, Thaery*, Francia, Polska-, Kiev(1.5)-

DIPLOMACY: Brittany(a), Lorraine(fa), Languedoc(fa)

When all the dust settled, the Saxons were the clear victor of the Rebellion of the Four Duchies. The Ponthieu allied army, already a powerful force, was expanded to 37,000 men. They promptly trampled upon the Guyenne homeland of Aquitaine and toppled their corrupted government. Sedgewick and the Galacians pacified Catalonia. The Poitou with 2000 men attempted to force tribute from Lyonnais but were annihilated. Poitou rebelled. It wasn't necessary though because a fiscal crisis imploded what was left of Guyenne. King Clovis had allowed a rather sizable loan to default, so large it was, that it depressed all of Western Europe and bankrupted the profane banking system that Neville still sheltered from the Church.

Neville shouted real nasty oaths at Clovis and his ilk. The Saxon King can now imagine the Pope stopping by for a visit to sneer, "I told you so!" New ducal allies were enrolled when they heard how generous Saxonia is when dishing out its own troops to become integral parts of allied armies. Prince Sidana even married into the newly allied House of France. The only major diplomatic setback was in Flanders, who didn't want to have anything to do with Saxonia even with promises of public works improvements. Francia gave Languedoc and Lorraine back to Saxonia and added a little extra just be nice.

THE KINGDOM OF GUYENNE

The legacy of war yields bitter grain. In order to fight the Saxons, the Guyenne royalty took out a large loan. Now that they are busted, they've really busted. With what little leverage the bankers had left, they ousted Clovis from his throne and Guyenne was then dissolved. A regional depression sunk many Western European economies down with it and priests in their churches used this banking fiasco to preach the evils of usury.

As Clovis left for exile in Constantinople, he had the last laugh. The same default that chased him out of power shall irritate the Saxons for years to come.

THE ALMORAVID EMIRATE OF ANDALUSIA - 1534

Istafa II, Emir as Sevilla

Trade Value: 13 Partners: Fulani*, Mahdia, Saxon, Liguria-, Pope-, Francia*, Byzantion*, Islam-

DIPLOMACY: Saragoza(a), Mobecka Islands(f)

The Moors of Andalusia whether they liked it or not were affected by the collapse of the Saxonian banks. Istafa was a good guy and had paid back his own loan but now questions whether his economy should be so closely tied with the infidels who can't seem to count past ten.

DIPLOMACY: Tuscany(a), Lucca(fa), Polesine(fa), Emeliano(f), Rimini(nt)

In Genoa, a bunch of bank robbers were caught red handed trying to break into the royal vault. Lord Ricardo forced some confessions out of these men. They were in the pay of Gottfried II, Duke of Milan and Flanders. Colombo was genuinely surprised, he thought the troublemakers were Apulian.

Leo IX, Pope of Rome, Vicar of Christ, God's Chancellor Upon This Earth

Trade Value: 3 Partners: Almoravid Infidels*, Liguria, Spoleto, Arezzo

DIPLOMACY: Pontino(h), Maremma(c), Cecina(c), Lepini(a), Sabin(h)

Pope Leo ignored the affairs of greater Europe and attempted to gain land by diplomacy. The Campanians, the Volturini, the Matese and Fucinans were friendly territories to other nations and could not be swayed to even degrade in status. The Duchy of Arezzo wasn't interested in being in Papal State.

The Church's policies remained the same as before.

THE LOMBARD DUCHY OF SPOLETO

Jacapo, Lagobard Doge of Spoleto

Trade Value: 4 Partners: Pope, Tarantum

Christopher Drymitinos, Despot of Taranto

Trade Value: 3 Partners: Liguria, Spoleto, Byzantion

DIPLOMACY: Calabria(fa)

As a Liginian army inspected Basilicata to apparently determine its suitability for conquest, the lords of Salentina did not take advantage of the laxity of the Lombard Duchies and steal their superior technology. Tyrus' death was rough for some vassals did not like the new Despot, Christopher. But this dynastic failure had absolutely no effect on the land. A couple of pigeons left Tarantum for the greener pastures of Byzantion.

Merca: 20mc, 10mi

THE NORDIK KINGDOM OF THAERY - 407

Alek II, King of the Danes

Trade Value: 11 Partners: Saxonia*, Francia, Poland, Kiev-

DIPLOMACY: Cornwall(a), Uppland(f)

Romer died in his bed and the whole kingdom mourned his passing. After a couple of weeks of wearing black, the palace chamberlain discovered the new king Alek II was in Cornwall, making a speech. A bird was sent to deliver a message to the new king:

"Yo! King. Get back to the palace before the dominion is wracked with rebellions. By the way, your dad is dead. -Your Servant, the Chamberlain."

Gautland and Svealand didn't wait. They declared themselves free Jarldoms with not much to do with København.

THE KINGDOM OF FRANCIA - 1072

Tyran, Panarch of Francia

Trade Value: 8 Partners: Mahidia-, Almoravid-, Saxon, Milano, Liguria, Thaery, Poland, Bakonai, Byzantion*, Islam*

DIPLOMACY: Piave(n), Champagne(fa), Barqa(c), Trentio(nt) to Milano)

In a move of supreme foolishness, the Francian heir, Ekhart gave the Polish army back to the Poles instead of keeping the army and conquering Poland. The nobles were upset because everyone knows nice guys finish last.

In other acts of kindness, Titus Pompo was given the fief of Languedoc and command of 90 assorted boats and was allowed to be feudal ally of Saxonia. Nikto Blum was allowed to keep the main Francian corp of 30,000 as his personal army as he too became a feudal ally to Saxonia. The aristocracy was shocked white to see their entire army just given away to evil foreigners. Many are now fleeing München expecting Francia's neighbors to attack. Piave has hedged its bets already and rebelled.

The Poles, in exchange for all this kindness, offered Ekhart a princess but the Francon Prince has already been married and has had several children of his own. Indeed Ekhart is too nice to keep a mistress around. Gold was sent to Bakonai without troops attached to them as a bonus.

THE MARGRAVATE OF POLSKA - 301

Volazam, Markgraf of Poland

Trade Value: 7 Partners: Saxony*, Thaery, Francia, Bakon, Kiev

DIPLOMACY: none

"Look, they're giving us back our army."

"It's a miracle."

"Maybe we should attack the Franks now that they've got nothing to stop us."

"But that's not Christian."

Lissona, the rather, uh, distinguished Princess of Poland was rejected by the Francians due to polygamous reasons. She has decided to be a pain in her brother's back by decorating the king's throne room in pink. Some gold was shipped to Bakonai with strings attached. Sandomir has gone cultivated.

THE KINGDOM OF BAKONAI

Snoak, King of the Bakons

Boffo the Evil Clown, Trusted Administrator of Bakon Dynasty

Trade Value: 2 Partners: Francia, Poland, Kiev, Byzantion

DIPLOMACY: Carpathia(f), Temesvar(ea), Transylvania(nt), Bakony(ea)

Borrowing goods from Polska and Francia, the Bakonites built their capital port city, Klutz, in Slovakia. Shuab was so proud of his accomplishment he had a heart attack and fell into a well inhabited by sharks. Shuab's son Zighan dove in after him to save his already dead father but people usually do not survive jumping into shark infested aquifers. Zighan's eleven year old son Snoak was proclaimed the king. Snoak didn't have the experience to rule the horse rich realm so he named his tutor Boffo the Evil Clown regent of Bakonai for awhile.

THE PRINCIPALITY OF NOVGOROD

The Yltvar Omar v. 3.0, Emir of Great Bolgar

Trade Value: 3 Partners: Novgorod, Kiev

DIPLOMACY: Shirvan(n), Donets(c), Murom(h)

The Volga Bolgars got real nervous about those hordes to the east. So the Yltvar Omar glossed over the diplomacies he had to do, not giving each area enough time and attention. The Altmen of Yayik and Khazar wanted much more than a mere formality if there was to be full incorporation. the unbelievers continued to not believe.

On board one of the captured boats was ex-King Clovis who explained he was on his way to Constantinople anyway to ask for asylum as a economic refugee. THE SHAHDOM OF PARTHIA - 264

Xerxes, Shah of Parthia, Emir of Merv, Archon of Bactria

Trade Value: 11 Partners: Islam, Ghur

DIPLOMACY: El Burz(nt)

The Khirgiz and the Oghuz joined forces to... jam the joint, pack up and leave, go that away, move in another direction, vacate the premises, get out of town, make like trees and scrambling, knock down the tents and pull up the stakes, remove the pink flamingos from the front lawn, put up the 'for sale' sign in front of the property, boogie on down, become scarce, and slam the door on the way out. But now the hordes are Ghur's problem. C'est la vie.

THE KHIRGIZ HORDE

Palunhg

DIPLOMACY: none

Palunhg called for the Oghuz to join him and they did. Together, the Khirgiz and the Oghuz went into Yarkhand then Kashmir to attack Pathan, head waters of the Indus Valley. Aral'sk revolted. The Kariuk left the Khirgiz camp to settle the western part of the Tarim Basin (Tarim, Yarkhand, and Khotan) as a horde block.

THE OGHUZ HORDE

Bamon

Trade Value: 1 Partners: none, what'd you expect

DIPLOMACY: Kariuk Horde(nt), Rambone Horde(f), Saryai Horde(a), Kashmir(nt)

Bamon went on one last tour of the Turkish Steppe. His mighty horde gained a new ally, the Saryai or Yellow Horde. The 158,000 Ghuzz joined forces with 96,000 Khirgiz in Ferghana and both abandoned the Black Basin to take the Kashgar-Kashmir Passage into India. Ghor controlled Pathan was attacked but that was all the new horde alliance could do before the artificially imposed deadline called the 'end of the turn' passed. Because Oghuz was bigger, they got to own Pathan. The city, now under effective passive siege, is Peshawar. It has good defenses built by the Ghorids to protect it from the Hindus.

All the steppe territory that the Oghuz held sway over quietly went neutral.

THE GHORID SULTANATE OF AFGHANISTAN

Masud, Sultan of Afghans

Trade Value: 3 Partners: Parthia, Kaunaj

DIPLOMACY: none

As expected the hordes rained on Fonsil's parade. But before he could execute his defense plan, he died of the Black Bone Illness. Fonsil's successor Masud is in Peshawar surrounded by 245,000 pagan warriors. Kashmir loaded up to the Ghuzz and that isolated Pamir and Ushrusana but Allah be Praiseed, they did not rebel yet.

THE PRATIHARA EMPIRE OF KAUNAJ - 1024

Pratihara Kohngupta, Emperor of Kaunaj

Trade Value: 16 Partners: Islam*, Ghur, Chalukya, Tibet, Pagan, Kambuja-, Chekiang*

DIPLOMACY: Vatsa(fa), Malwa(nt), Jhelum(t), Gujarat(c), Kamarupa(a), Chitor(a)

The Pratihara expanded three of their most important cities, just in time for some hordes to arrive. The most astute of Gopala's advisors claim that Ghur's too impoverished for them. They must be envious of the riches of India.

Not far from Pathan, Multan was attacked by King Gopala III, not a brilliant battle commander, with 32,000 mixed cavalry and 1000 catapults. The land battle was a rout. The Multan Emir was forced to take command of his own city's defenses. The fifty feet tall walls and their guards competently held off Gopala's ineffectual bombardments. Indeed Gopala was killed when they dropped an iron cauldron on him (they ran out of boiling tar). The surviving cavalry withdrew to Sukkur as Kohngupta was acclaimed the new Maharajah of the Land. Kohngupta was unhappy. If he had led the attack on Multan, he would have reduced the city. After all, Kohn's combat rating is twice as good as his dead dunderhead brother.

THE CHALUKYA MANDALAM - 605

Pulakesin III, The Great Muta, King of the South

Trade Value: 11 Partners: Ethiopia*, Islam*, Kaunaj, Pagan*

DIPLOMACY: none

Young Pulakesin was confused as to what to do. He had not any direction. He didn't have a clue how to crush the Rastrakuta.

THE RASTRAKUTA EMPIRE

Rastrakuta Hiryu, Emperor of Manyakheta

Trade Value: 4 Partners: Kambuja, Java*, Chekiang

DIPLOMACY: none

That's alright. The Rastrakuta were scared so much, they dare not move. Those rumors of Giant Rajput armies to the west did not help anyone's blood pressure. And the warfare to the east sounded equally ominous.

Trade Value: 2 Partners: Kaunaj, Pagan, Vietnam, Di Zhong

DIPLOMACY: Kachin(t)

THE KINGDOM OF PAGAN - 315

Monson III, King of Pagan, Maharaja Myanmar

Trade Value: 7 Partners: Chalukya, Tibet, Java(8), Vietnam, Chekiang

DIPLOMACY: none

The vicious Cambodian attack on Kayah and the subsequent defeat of U Latkyi flung Monson II into panic. He sent desperate envoys to Linan and Thanglong for help. Hurried scaffolds strengthened the defenses of Pagan and Bassein and a new army was recruited. Spies were sent out to disrupt the Kambujan advance while King Monson II held tightly on to the railings expecting a rough ride. [Go on to the Kambujan results]

THE KAMBUJADESA - 144

Noroang Dhun, Emperor of Kambujadesa, Monarch of the Emerald Throne

Trade Value: 4 Partners: Kaunaj-, Rastrakuta, Java-

DIPLOMACY: none

Kambuja stepped up the war effort to finish the job of destroying Pagan before it was too late. All of Suryavarman's merchant marine was mothballed and the sailors were pressed into military service. Even young teenaged boys were mustered and were heavily equipped. All told, the king led an army of 3500 mounted knights, 40,000 archers and 20,000 sword men. From Mangfu and Pendash, they marched on Thaton and caught 25,500 Burmese trying to cross the mountains into Dvaravati. U Latkyi led this force and the God-Emperor laughed because that Paganese general had lost before to his son. But U Latkyi never did get a fair battle in Kayah, at least here the odds were halfway decent, outnumbered only two to one. U Latkyi got his tactical victory and forced the Khmer back to Mon. 17,500 men died in the battle and subsequent pursuit. U Latkyi then crossed into Dvaravati, master of the field.

Meanwhile, the God-Emperor's son, Noraong Dhun, listened to the suggestions of a little bird, a Burmese bird. Soon he and his 68,500 infantry army evacuated Kayah and returned via Lampang to Dvaravati where he overthrew his father's government and installed his own. He asked for peace but was ignored by the Dai Viet and the Chekiang who had attacked into Phan Rang, Khmer and Siam. General U Latkyi heeded his call and even showed up in person to hammer out a deal. They had a common objective to defeat the war mongering Suryavarman and his army in their encampment at Mon. The combined Latkyi-Noroang force of 79,000 surrounded the 48,000 man Suryavid force, drew their swords and cut them all down to a man. Suryavarman escaped the melee by boat and became a royal exile in the court of Pulakesin III.

The new God-Emperor thanked the old Burmese general for his help and promised peace between the two kingdoms. But then there are still the Viets and Cheks who seemed to have used this occasion for an excuse for a land grab.

In Burma, Monson II, Aniruddha II and U Latkyi all fell victim to the Saigon Flu. Aniruddha's son, Monson III, became the new King of Pagan.

Giap Quai, Wang Dai Viet

Trade Value: 8 Partners: Tibet, Pagan, Java-, Chekiang, Zhong, Tumed*

DIPLOMACY: Chiennan(f), Lingnan(f), Yunnan(t)

"A crisis of destiny is brought upon us by the second dastardly attack of Kambujadesa against our allies in Pagan. In order to assure that the fate of our Dai Viet Empire rests in the best possible hands, I am appointing the allied ruler of Chiennan as heir to the Giap throne under the name of Giap Chien. He has his choice of the princesses of the house of Giap for a wife, and he will lead our armies into battle in the south."

In the face of Giap Shen, Quai's eldest son who would have come of age to be crown prince in 1218, Pang Chien of Chiennan brought his mob of Tais to the palace of Thanglong and assumed his place as the Successor. 'Giap' Pang Chien gained full command of the Viet army in Tonkin and gathered more troops in Champa and Cochinchina. He, along with the South Court Duke, Jon Nguyen, crossed the delta of the Mekong along with a massive detachment of Chekiang troops in Phan Rang to teach the Hidden Khmer a lesson. Phan Rang and the city of Saigon easily fell to the invaders. The large force of 75,000 men and a coast guard of 760 vessels then occupied Khmer, Angkor and Siam. They threatened Mangfu itself, but with a new peace between Kambuja and Burma, this adventure's purpose seemed to be rendered moot.

The Lingnan Prince, Rei Ling, was installed as the new North Court Duke.

The Chekiang prime elite advance guard supported the Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia. No significant opposition was reported as it seems the enemy had fallen to fighting amongst themselves and the pro-Pagan party had won. Fog Teeth

White Paint sent his son Fog Teeth ahead of him with 10,500 Chumash across the barren, uninhabited desert of Papago (1000 men died in the crossing) to participate in the invasion of the Hohokam pueblos. Fog passed through Snaketown to attack Chiricaua but was repulsed (3000 died at the hands of 5500 Chiricauans led by Fleet Tongue). After regrouping they then launched a foray against Jornada and Tiwa which was successful (but 2500 more died). These lands had to pay tribute in the form of corn.

At home, the Chumash began a migration along with their new Salinn allies. White Paint stopped by Yuma to get them to come too but didn't get them to a high enough status by the time he died. With Fog Teeth's son only six years old, he'll have to cross the deadly Papago Desert pick up the stranded settlers, cross the deadly desert again to get them to the new Chumash home. Of those left behind, Serrano revolted.

HO HO KAM

Fleet Tongue In High Dry Valleys The Red Smoke

DIPLOMACY: Chiricaua(a)

The Hohokam paid no attention to the Smoke Jaguar advance to Mogollon and did not assume it was anything other than friendly. The Smokers attacked in full fury Oyata and its city Tonto. They swiftly conquered Hohokam and Anasazi before they were stopped by the Tiwa. But that wasn't all. Another nation of bad people, the Chumash, working in accordance with the Jaguars tried to attack Chiricaua but failed. They then came back to take Jornada and Tiwa (Tiwa was so softened up by the Jaguars that the Chumash got the best of them). Fleet Tongue was left with the Chiricauans to call his own. They were grateful for his leadership and became fully allied to the cause.

In all this fracas, Slow Tongue died and Fleet elevated another son to prominent position.
